RICH MEN AND WOMEN

OF

BROOKLYN AND WILLIAMSBURGH.

The publishers and compilers of this work did not undertake it without being duly impressed with the delicacy and importance of the task, and without being aware that they would, at the commencement, meet with much opposition from envious and interested sources, and from persons not comprehending its true objects and purposes. Persons who move in society with borrowed plumes, and others who assume high positions from fictitious capital and merely ostensible possessions, have felt alarm lest their real situations might be made apparent; while others have been causelessly apprehensive that in our biographical notices we might shadow forth circumstances and events in their lives not meet for the public eye. Far from the latter being the case, we have (and shall in future enlarged editions of this book) carefully abstain from inflicting a wound upon the feelings or casting a shade upon the reputation of any one; whilst, if there be aught that will add lustre to the name or career of even the humblest individual, we shall eagerly seize upon all facts that may present themselves to elevate the standing or give celebrity to the station of those who may be mentioned in these pages.

We are conscious that in our initial effort many omissions, many errors, and the neglect of much interesting detail may, with truth, be ascribed to us; but in a succeeding issue, (for which arrangements have already been made) these defects will not, we hope, appear. A consideration of the numerous obstacles we have had to contend with, together with our inexperience in matters pertaining to such a publication, will, we doubt not, entitle us to the indulgence and favor of those who might otherwise be disposed to criticise our labors with severity, and carp at the imperfections of our maiden production in this department of literature. We can confidently state, however, that neither care, expense, nor labor has been spared to render the work as correct as possible, so far as regards the estimated wealth of the men and women of Brooklyn and Williamsburgh; and we shall be glad, in the next edition we contemplate, to correct any and all the mistakes we may have made. Of one thing we are certain; that the statistical matter will compare to our advantage with that of a similar pamphlet published in New York, which has had an enormous sale, and obtained munificent pecuniary reward.

Strange as it may appear, it is undoubtedly true that the great city of Brooklyn;—its wealth, importance, and extent,—the opulence of its merchants and traders—and the exalted monetary standing of a large body of its inhabitants (of those who tenant its unpretending dwellings, as well as the occupants of its many palaces)—are scarcely known beyond its geographical limits. We hope to obtain for it, by the issue of this book, an acquisition of greater general importance than it has heretofore possessed; and show, to adjacent as well as remote communities, its right and title to be regarded, in all that constitutes a city, as the sixth in greatness in the United States.

On the cover, we give the number of inhabitants of this county as furnished by the last official census, and, also—from sources which may be relied upon—the several amounts of assessments levied in each ward upon real and personal property, for the general expenses of the city, and the support of the Common Schools. To the uninitiated in such matters, these statements will not be devoid of interest.

TO THE PUBLIC.—BIOGRAPHIES.

In the present edition will be found but a very small portion of the biographies contemplated for this work by the publishers. The great difficulty experienced in obtaining accurate data in relation to this department of our enterprise, and the necessity entailed upon us of being strictly correct in all particulars that we give of personal histories;—the desire, moreover, to do ample justice to all who may be embraced in this prominent feature of our undertaking—have determined us to present only a few such sketches in this copy; leaving to a much enlarged and greatly improved edition, for which entire arrangements have been made (as mentioned in our preface) the full results of our labors and researches in this respect. With this view, the edition now published will not exceed the demands for the supply of orders received from the booksellers, and from private sources. To all who may think proper to favor us with well authenticated biographical notices (after the style and manner of those which now appear) we shall feel greatly obliged; but we desire it to be distinctly understood that we wish no information in relation to any persons, publicity to which will redound to their disadvantage

☞ In the researches and enquiries requisite for this publication, we have ascertained that an immense amount (in value) of Real Estate is owned by persons who are residents of other places. The names of these individuals will be published in the next edition of this work, together with such particulars concerning them as may be deemed interesting, and shall fall legitimately within its province and purview. To any persons who will transmit to us information of the character contemplated, (addressed to J. Lomas, 45 Prince street,) we shall feel greatly obliged; but we shall not take cognizance of any communications from. anonymous sources, or any that are not post paid Since our first announcement to issue this pamphlet, we have had hundreds of letters from individuals who have (for purposes best known to themselves) not given their names; and all such have been thrown aside as undeserving of notice.

We desire to state, also, that in our next edition, we shall embrace the names of all the wealthy persons of F atbush, Bushwick, Gravesend, New Utrecht, Flatlands, Carnarsa, and other portions of the county of Kings not already included in this copy.

JOHN LOMAS,
ALFRED S. PEACE.

Brooklyn, Feb. 1847.

 In the subjoined alphabetical lists, the publishers have given the aggregate amount of each individual's wealth—without separating the real from the personal estates. In subsequent editions which will appear, these distinctions will be marked.

This gentleman, a native of Erin' Isle, commenced his career in Brooklyn as a humble laborer, and by economy, frugality, and untiring industry amassed sufficient means to enable him to commence business as a contractor on public roads. He soon manifested an aptitude and ability for such undertakings as to place him in the first rank of the profession, and has, by a series of fortunate operations, amassed his present large possessions. He is one of the leading democrats of the county, and has considerable influence as a politician.

This gentleman is the owner of a large pin manufactory in Raymond street, and resides in a magnificent house in Myrtle avenue. He has contributed largely to the prosperity of the eastern section of the city, is exceedingly popular with all classes of his fellow citizens, and, if ambitious of political distinction, may hereafter becoue the representative of this district in the national councils. He is, we believe, one of the most prominent leaders of the whig party in Kings county.

Few, if any, of our citizens are more distinguished for their munificence and liberality, than these enterprising and opulent merchants. Edgar J. has at his own expense, erected the "Church of the Holy Trinity," an edifice far surpassing in architectural grandeur and costliness of material and workmanship any similar structure in this city. It may appropriately be termed the Cathedral of Brooklyn, and will serve to perpetuate the name and munificence of its founder in ages yet to come. He is, we believe, in politics, a democrat, and was selected by that party as its chosen candidate for mayor; but he declined the honors offered him, notwithstanding that he would, beyond all reasonable doubt, have been elected. His heart and abundant means are ever open to the appeals of charity, and no one in this community has done more than he has towards relieving the necessities of the poor.

The immense and rapid growth of the southern section of the city is chiefly owing to the indomitable enterprize, perseverance, and public spirit of the father of this gentleman. The latter became unfortunate in business matters some years ago, arising from the panic which prostrated so many men of property, and the consequent fluctuations in value of real estate. He is now, however, in the full tide of successful experiment, and will soon, we doubt not, reach as high a position in wealth as his fortunate son, whose extensive business in New York has mainly contributed to his success.

Few persons in the community have obtained a more widely spread popularity than this gentleman; and his public career, as a member of the Common Council, has obtained for him the high estimation of all classes of society, and the friendly regard of a large majority of his political opponents. Possessed of great ability as a debater, and an uprightness and integrity impregnable to party considerations, he is eminently worthy of the highest station which the people of this district can confer upon him. Though a prominent sectarian in religious matters, he is liberal and tolerant to all others, and has unostentatiously contributed to many charitable institutions, besides being munificent in his donations to the distressed and poor.

Crummey Edward.....30,000
Cullen Dr. Henry J 30,000

Dr. Cullen is one of the most successful and eminent physicians in Brooklyn. He has been established but a few years here, but in that time has, by his ability and kindheartedness, secured the suffrages of all classes and conditions of his fellow citizens. Having a large practice among the most wealthy, he is noted for having in many instances sought out and relieved the physical and pecuniary distresses of the poor. He was for many years engaged in the practice of his profession in Mexico, and has an intimate knowledge of the condition and political history of that country It was through his influence and warm personal exertions, during the Texan war, that a large number of prisoners, mostly Americans, captured and condemned to death by the Mexican forces, were liberated. He not only contributed largely himself to the high ransom exacted by the Mexican authorities, but induced others to do the same.

Decamp Elihu H.....20,000
Degen Charles R.....20,000
Degraw A. J. S.....30,000

A commission merchant, doing business in New York, of which city he is a native.

Mr. D. commenced his mercantile career with N. H. Jewett, Esq., of New York, then inspector of Pot and Pearl Ashes for that city. As a remuneration for his services he was allowed to speculate in what is known among the dealers in those articles as "scrapings;" and soon became well known for his industry, perseverance, and the punctuality with which he met his engagements. His speculations proved eminently successful, enabling him in the short space of four years to commence, what has since proved to be, a highly prosperous business from his own resources. He is now but twenty-four years of age; and if the future should prove as brilliant as the past and present he will undoubtedly rank with the wealthiest of our city—having made the above sum by his own individual exertions in business.

Fleet Samuel.....150,000

Is descended from an old English family. The ancestor, Thomas Fleet, a captain in the British Navy, came to this country about the year 1650 and purchased a tract of land on the north side of Long Island, near Huntington; and transmitted it to his posterity, one of whom is now in possession. The subject of this article was brought up a farmer, and made a snug property during the last war with England, when grain and produce were very high. He afterwards removed to Brooklyn, where he purchased two farms which have long been valuable as city lots.

Laid the foundation of his fortune by holding the office of corporation attorney of Brooklyn when it was very lucrative (infinitely more so than at present); and has since held a very prominent position as a politician. Although yet a young man, he has been mayor of the city, and twice elected to congress. He possesses very superior abilities, untiring energy and industry, and, from his many amiable and excellent qualities, is deservedly popular with the masses. He is a large stock holder in, and one of the principal directors of, the Atlantic Bank, and has honorably distinguished himself on numerous occasions by his liberal contributions for charitable purposes.

The history of this gentleman furnishes a brilliant example to persons of humble means as to what may be accomplished by industry and integrity in business transactions. In 1824 he arrived in New York poor and friendless, but, by the possession of superior abilities, and a diligence in the performance of the subordinate duties of a merchant's office in which he found employment, he obtained the confidence and respect of all who knew him. After laboring many years for others, and being thoroughly acquainted with mercantile operations, he embarked, with slender means, in the emigrant passenger business, and soon, by pursuing a course of fairness and liberality to his countrymen and others on their arrival here from their native land, acquired celebrity and wealth. Emigrants from Europe are subjected to many impositions and extortions from persons who charter vessels for their passage to this land of promise; but the subject of this sketch stands proudly aloof from the herd of "land pirates" who victimize the poor emigrant. Mr. Mc Murray has one of the largest shipping establishments in New York, and is the principal agent in this country for the Provincial Bank of Ireland. He has two sons connected with him in business, who, with their father, stand preeminent in the commercial world as honorable men.

Mrs. R. belongs to that much honored class of citizens the "oldest inhabitant," having been born on Long Island and resided for the last forty years in Brooklyn; and is emphatically one of the "old schooll" holding the antiquated, and almost obsolete doctrine, that honesty and sobriety should be a principle of the heart, and not an outward garment to be put on and off at pleasure; and that female accomplishments should have a wider range than the saloon and drawing room afford; and should be made as familiar with kitchen utensils as with the piano forte, dancing, light reading, and other thousand blandishments esteemed in modern refinement indispensible. Her husband was for many years a merchant in New York and Brooklyn.
